Looted Mail Train.

SEVERAL OTHER ARRESTS

By United Press.
CHICAGO, June 14.—Paul Wages of Tulsa, Okla., known as a police character, was arrested today in connection with the hunt for the bandits who late Thursday night held up and robbed the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul mail train of currency and securities estimated up to $2,500,000. Police announced they found a $1,000 bill and a $500 bill on his person. The money, they said, corresponded to the description of the bills seized by the robbers. The bills were blood stained. One robber was seriously injured by a fellow bandit in mistake for a mail guard. A man and woman, giving the names of Mr. and Mrs. Walter McCorn, also were arrested.

CHICAGO, June 14.—Acting on a tip that the perpetrators of the robbery would be found in a restaurant, detectives late Friday raided the place and arrested a dozen men, including Dean O'Bannon, Orlando Horton, Louis Alterio and Earl Weiss, alleged beer runners.

O'Bannon, Alterio and Weiss were held a few weeks ago in a raid on a brewery here. Horton was arrested as a suspect in the slaying a few months ago of John Duffy and his wife but was later released. All those arrested were taken to the federal building for questioning and a few minutes later attorneys representing several of them asked for writs of habeas corpus for their release. In addition to the dozen seized in the raid four other suspects were under arrest here and one man was being held at Wheeling where deputy sheriffs and detectives continued to scour the country for miles around Chicago.

PLANS FOR BIG CELEBRATION OF FOURTH PETER OUT

There will be no formal celebration of the Fourth of July in Connellsville this year. Inability of various organizations which might have assisted Milton L. Bishop Post of the American Legion in putting the proposition over to set behind the movement is given as the reason for its collapse. In the early spring Mayor C. C. Mitchell advocated such a celebration and said that if it were taken up he would contribute $100 toward a necessary fund. The P. O. E. L. endorsed the suggestion and also offered a $100 contribution. Then the Legion post considered the taking charge, with the plan in view of soliciting the aid of other organizations in handling the project, which would have been a big one. The matter got no further. It is practically too late now for any sort of celebration of the fact that Connellsville was a big demonstration on that day. It is very unlikely any home event will be planned.

Trotter Child's Condition Serious

At the Connellsville State Hospital this morning it was said the condition of little Joe Luskoski of Trotter, who was run over by a wagon when it fell from it near there, remains serious. He suffered many injuries. The condition of Robert Lee Gray, the lad struck by a Pennsylvania railroad train near Davidson Wednesday, when two companions were killed, is slightly better today. It was said. When admitted to the hospital little hope for his recovery was held.

SUTTON MURDER CASE WITH JURY THIS AFTERNOON

Did Constable Len Sutton of Fairchance come to his death March 28 by accident or by foul means? Late this afternoon the jury which has been hearing the evidence before Judge E. H. Reppert in Uniontown will retire to debate the question. The Commonwealth has attempted to establish that the officer was beaten and thrown from the automobile of Andrew Gountz of Scotts Run, near Morgantown, W. Va., and his companion, Elijah Robinson. The defense attempted to convince the jury that the officer fell from the running board of the car after he had boarded it in search of liquor.

Summing up was begun at the opening of court today. Attorney William T. George of Philadelphia, W. Va., made the argument for the defense, consuming two hours. Attorney George Patterson followed him and it was expected he would close his address about 1 o'clock. A recess was planned at that time until 2 o'clock, following which Judge Reppert was to charge the jury.

The trial of Robinson, the other defendant, is expected to be taken up early next week.

Before Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen testimony was taken during the forenoon in the case wherein C. P. Kendall of McClellandtown, principal of the Lockport schools, sued Frank Reddo, a patron, for assault and battery. It was charged that Reddo assaulted the principal because he had paddled a son of Reddo for refusing to recite verses assigned to him as a part of the Pledge Day program. The alleged assault took place during the noon recess on March 5.

FORMAL PROBE IS BEGUN OF TRAGEDY ON MISSISSIPPI

Officers and Men Who Escaped Blast in Gun Turret Killing 48 Questioned.

CAUSE MAY BE UNSOLVED

By United Press.
SAN PEDRO, Cal., June 14.—Below deck in officers' quarters aboard the U. S. S. Mississippi today, the formal board of inquiry set to hear details of a story of traditional heroism shown by men of the Navy when death struck.

Officers and men were questioned but from each was heard nothing but terms of highest praise for 48 members of the dreadnought complement who went to their death Thursday in an explosion which gun turret No. 2.

The exact cause of the tragedy still is more or less of a mystery and may remain so. Lieutenant Commander Relbeck, chief gunnery officer of the Mississippi's crew, told the board "This first impression was that it was caused by foul bore, in spite of the fact that this was a splendidly drilled and well instructed crew with experienced and reliable gun captains whose duty it is to see that the bore is clear."

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The catastrophe aboard the battleship Mississippi which cost the lives of 48 officers and men today intensified the demand here for modernization of the Navy. The Navy Department, which urged upon the last session of Congress the necessity of reconstructing many of the older battleships, prepared to renew its insistence when Congress convenes in December.

Its line of argument is that since such a disaster as happened aboard the Mississippi, which is one of the newest of ships of the fleet, there is all the more reason for giving the older ships immediate attention.

Representative Britton of Illinois, ranking Republican on the House Naval Affairs Committee and leading strong Navy advocate in Congress, today had conferences scheduled with President Coolidge, Secretary of the Navy William D. Dorn, and Secretary of State Hughes. Besides general modernization of the fleet, he will urge approval of his proposal to elevate the guns on the first line ships to increase their range.

W. P. Clark, Kurtz Post Commander, Celebrates Eightieth Birthday

Present among the birthday parties of the members of William P. Kurtz Post No. 104, Grand Army of the Republic was that of William P. Clark, commander of the post for the past several years, held yesterday afternoon at the Clark residence in Lincoln avenue with Civil War comrades and a few friends of the honored guest in attendance.

Commander Clark is 80 years old today and despite his advanced age he enjoys good health and is very active. He is one of Conneltsville's oldest and most substantial citizens and for more than a half century has been prominently connected with the First Methodist Episcopal Church. The party was delightfully appointed and was a very enjoyable affair. Commander and Mrs. Clark and daughters leaving nothing undone toward looking after the comfort and entertainment of their guests.

Previous to the party the monthly business meeting of the post was held, Commander Clark presiding. At the request of George H. Ingham of Pittsburgh, a former resident of Conneltsville and who was a guest at the birthday celebration, his membership was transferred from the Kurtz Post to Post 117 of Pittsburgh. Comrade Ingham has always been very much interested in the Kurtz Post and he gave a most pathetic talk in regards to his leaving.

Comrade Lyman S. Strickler presided over the party which was opened with "America," rendered by the veterans and other guests. Prayer by Rev. Dr. Bennett W. Hutchinson, of the First Methodist Episcopal Church followed, after which all present congratulated Commander Clark wishing him many more happy birthdays. In commemorating the honored guest, Joseph Forrey of Philadelphia, a former well-known resident of Conneltsville and a member of Post No. 1 of Philadelphia, presented him with a bouquet of pink carnations as a token of the high esteem in which he is held by his comrades and many other acquaintances. Mr. Forrey has been at the comrades' birthday parties during his visit here and he stated that he had enjoyed them so much that it would be hard for him to leave Conneltsville. The usual custom of the Post that he who fails to make a speech will not be allowed the privilege of partaking of the fine repasts which always follow the program, was carried out. Each comrade gave a most interesting talk on his war experiences. Dr. Hutchinson and Grant Myers, who were also guests gave talks appropriate to the occasion. Mrs. Clarence McCormick, a daughter of the Post, favored the guests with two delightfully rendered vocal solos.

At the conclusion of the program the guests assembled in the dining-room where a most delicious chicken dinner was served, covers for sixteen being laid. The table decorations were especially attractive. Pink and white pennants formed the centerpiece, while at either end of the table were vases of mock-orange blossoms, carnations and snapdragons, intermingled with small American flags. Glass candles holding lighted daffodil candles added charm to the effect. The "Doxology" was sung previous to the dinner. A large silk flag adorned the window in the dining-room, while the chandelier was made attractive by festooning of maidenhair fern. Pennants were also used in decorating.

Following the dinner a motion was made by Captain Edmund Dunn and seconded by Colonel James J. Barnhart, that Miss Lynne B. Kinell be made a daughter of the Post. Miss Kinell thanked the comrades for the honor bestowed upon her. Colonel Barnhart made a motion that a vote of thanks be extended. Commander Clark and family for their hospitality and the fine dinner which they so greatly enjoyed. The motion was unanimously carried. Comrade Strickler invited all in attendance to a party to be held June 26 at his home in East Conneltsville in honor of the anniversary of his birth.

Comrades present were Commander Clark, Colonel James J. Barnhart, Captain Edmund Dunn, Joseph Forrey, William H. Shaw, A. S. Haddock, Charles H. Hill, Charles H. Whiteley, John Robinson, George H. Ingham, James G. Hicks and Lyman S. Strickler. Other guests in attendance were Mrs. D. W. Hutchinson, Grant Myers, Mrs. George M. Hosack of Pittsburgh, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Blanche McCormick, Miss Lynne B. Kinell of The Courier and an A. C. Kozlowsky of The Daily News.

J. E. Jones, a member of the Post, was unable to attend because of being confined to his North Pittsburgh street home as the result of a fall suffered several days ago. All members are in their eighties with the exception of Comrade Clelland of Vanderhill, who is 77 years old and A. R. Brashear, who is 73, and C. H. Hill, who is also 73.

DO YOU COUGH?

"Last winter when I contracted a heavy cold which settled in the bronchial tubes, causing me great distress with coughing, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery gave me such relief that I did not hesitate to give it to my two little daughters (pictures above) when they came down with colds later on. The 'Golden Medical Discovery' relieved the illness so that it was easily expelled and it also acted as a tonic, preventing further colds during the winter. I cannot say too much in praise of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery as a household remedy. It is the medicine I would use again whenever necessary for any member of my family."—Mrs. C. W. Male, 317 S. 12th St., Linton, Pa.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a well known tonic and builder that can be procured in tablets or liquid form from your neighborhood druggist. Send for Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for a trial box of the tablets and write for free advice.

Funeral party will go to Kingwood where the funeral service will be preached and where interment will be made.

THE ELYS OBSERVANCE OF FLAG DAY.

It is highly creditable to the members of the local lodge of Elys that they have not allowed the anniversary of the formal adoption of the Stars and Stripes as our national emblem to pass unnoticed.

By arranging a program appropriate to the occasion they are showing that patriotism still survives in Connelville and that as citizens they have realized the importance and value of a fitting observance of Flag Day.

While the exercises of tonight will be the public form the organization has given to its celebration, the prize essay contest which coincides with the award of prizes as a feature of the program, has a relation to the occasion which is deserving of consideration.

Through the incentive of substantial prizes the students of the public and parochial schools have given considerable time to study of the history of the flag, its meaning and significance, and with thoughtful care they have applied the knowledge thus gained to the preparation of essays on the subject. The results have been highly beneficial to all who have participated in the contest. They have been awarded prizes for their devotion to the country of which the flag is the symbol. They will be better students and citizens because of the influence of greater intimacy with the history of the flag and the events with which it is inseparably connected.

The Elys are, therefore, to be very cordially commended for having sponsored the contest as one of the chief features of their Flag Day celebration. If made an annual custom, it will serve splendidly to stimulate patriotism among school children, and, in due course, lead to a more general observance of the birthday of, and greater reverence for, "Old Glory."

REDUCING THE NUMBER OF UNWELCOMED GUESTS.
 The Prison Board of Fayette County has made a wise decision with respect to persons "arrested for vagrancy." The custom of sending persons of this class to the county jail, after their arrest by railroad and other officers in different parts of the county, maintaining them in idleness and at the county's expense, has nothing to justify its continuance.

It cannot over-crowding of the jail and does not tend to make Fayette county unpopular with the roving gentry who have a natural or easily acquired aversion to work. Spending a few days in jail is merely making an incident in the lives of the Knights of the Road, roving them of the necessity of making backdoor calls to provide the means of subsistence, and otherwise contributing to their creature comforts.

Requiring these gentlemen of leisure to perform some useful labor on the streets or highways during their sojourn here, is a form of punishment that does not tend to make Fayette county a desirable place to include in their itinerary. When this information is broadcasted among no members of the fraternity their inclination will be to make detours around Fayette county and we will thereby and that guests of this class will be very much reduced in number.

Some additional expense will be incurred in providing meals for these persons and at least part of the time of an officer will be required to supervise their work on the streets, but if they are kept reasonably busy during the hours of their employment the value of the labor performed by them ought to be equal to, if not greater than, the cost of their "keep." In such event taxpayers will be relieved of the former burden of paying for the entertainment of a more or less constantly increasing number of un-welcome guests.

The cry is raised in some quarters that Coolidge is a stand-patter. The whole nation ought to give fervent thanks that we have a man like him who has the courage to stand pat on liberty under the law, the integrity of the Constitution, the majesty of the law, and other fundamental principles. The country needs him more than ever before, and he has never before been called to have such men to silence the chatter and prattle and resist the seductions of the so-called progressive mobs, groups and sectionalists.

Have you repeated your pledge of allegiance to the flag today?

Some people speak of General Custer as "Bismarck," but that

He Will Administer Paying of Bonus Law.

Adjutant-General Robert C. Davis, of Washington, will be in charge of paying veterans of the World War the bonus which was created by the last session of Congress. At present there seems to be some uncertainty how much of a bonus will be paid, since funds are lacking.

term by no means implies that he is effeminate in any sense, least of all in his manner of speaking.

It is an encouraging sign and hopeful promise of their salvation to hear honest Democrats concede that Coolidge and Dawes form an unbeatable ticket.

Explosions and other accidents on board naval vessels show that the dangers of peace are greater than those of war.

The Sun Never Sets On Old Glory

The sun never sets on the Stars and Stripes. Every minute of the twenty-four hours, somewhere on our planet the folds of Old Glory are flying in the breeze.

It is the custom of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps to raise the flag every morning at 8 o'clock. It remains flying until sunset.

Three hours after the soldiers, blue jackets and marines at New York, Boston, Norfolk and other East Coast points have raised the flag, their comrades at San Diego and Mare Island, Calif., present arms to the colors as they are hoisted to the top of the flag-staff.

About two hours and a half later the ceremony is repeated in the Hawaiian Islands. More than five hours have rolled around before the flag is raised in the Philippines, just a few minutes before the guards at Peking, China, hoist the flag above the American Legation.

Several hours later the westward march of daylight catches the fluttering folds of the Stars and Stripes flying above our battleships and destroyers in European waters, and when the sun has passed its zenith in Europe, the flag is again flying to the breeze in the East Coast of the United States of America. Thus the Stars and Stripes, makes its appearance in the early morning in all parts of the globe, and the flag is kept flying until the sun disappears over the horizon.

Our flag has never been a symbol of military aggression. At home or abroad, aloft on the seven seas, or in some far distant outpost, it is America's guarantee of justice to those who seek protection under its folds.

Just Folks

Edgar A. Guest.

GETTING THE DOUGH.

Whenever around the fiscal board sit four or five of us. Quiet waversers through the lanes of life, our fellows in discomfiture. The conversation is broad and true, and very long will turn. Until the name of money ignoramus comes.

And soon upon their ear will fall this sentence soft and low, "There's Jack! He has no wit at all, but he seems to get the dough."

Now we are most intelligent; a beaming, clever crew. There's little that we do not know, but much we cannot do. Upon our walls the shagreened framed attest that we have been. To college, and of course you know what these diplomas mean. They prove our right to scholarship and culture's aureole glow. Yet in this curious world, it seems the blockheads get the dough.

We are so very wise and bright and they are very dull. Each one of us with knowledge true has toiled to pick his skill. And yet we struggle, day by day, to earn our milk and bread. And, speaking now financially, we never get ahead.

With our superior intellects, it mystifies us so. How men at whom we sit and sneer, can gather in the dough.

Yet, looking back across their lives, I see the things they've done. The thought they've put in action and the battles they have won. In brick and stone and lasting steel I see their buildings rise. I've seen them fashion useful things which every mortal buys. They do the deeds we cannot do with any wit or skill. And it's not hard to understand just why they get the dough! The United States Flag Association

With Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes heading what is probably the most prominent board of founders of any society ever organized in this country, there has just been incorporated in the Capital of the Nation a patriotic organization known as The United States Flag Association whose aims and purposes are to bring into greater consideration and higher appreciation regard by the citizenry of the Republic the flag of the United States as the visible, symbolic representation of our national sovereignty, ideals, traditions and institutions.

The other twelve founders, of whom there are thirteen in all, typifying the thirteen original states as symbolized by the thirteen stripes of the flag, are former Vice-President Thomas R. Marshall; Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur; Cardinal O'Connell of Boston; Rabbi Abram Simon, of Washington; Bishop James E. Freeman, of Washington; Senator Oscar W. Underwood; Governor Irvine L. Lenroot; Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York; Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, President General of the Federation of Women's Clubs whose membership totals two million; Judge Elbert H. Gary; Samuel Gompers; and Dr. Robert R. Moton, who succeeded Booker T. Washington as the head of Tuskegee Institute.

The diversity of religious, political and other belief amongst Mr. Hughes and Mr. Marshall; Cardinal O'Connell and Rabbi Simon; Judge Gary and Mr. Gompers, and amongst the rest of the founders who have joined hands together in the organization of a society like The United States Flag Association, shows in unmistakable terms not only to our own people, but also to the world at large that while Americans may differ amongst themselves in religion, politics and other matters, when it comes to the flag and the things for which the flag stands, they are one and inseparable. Life, liberty and justice, the United States Flag Association costs but one dollar and there are no other dues or fees of any kind. The only qualification for membership is American citizenship, every American citizen, regardless of race, creed, or sex being eligible. It is expected that the association will at no distant time have at least a million members. The hope of the founders is that The United States Flag Association shall become The Great American Patriotic Society, a society of the people and for the people, which will be a great center of American patriotism from which individuals, patriotic societies, civic, educational and fraternal bodies will receive inspiration in matters patriotic.

Colonel James A. Moss, United States Army, who followed the flag on the battlefields of the United States, is the originator and organizer of the movement.

In speaking of the birth of this new patriotic society, Secretary of State Hughes said, "It is fitting that we should have organized effort to direct attention to the correct use of the flag, and that, finding common ground on which all good citizens may unite, without regard to race or creed, we should emphasize our national ideals, and rejoicing in the benefits of liberty under law, work together to maintain the institutions of the Republic." I am, therefore, in hearty accord with The United States Flag Association whose mission is the achievement of these purposes."

"Quite Good Enough"

Any car that can take ten people over the Summit in high gear must have something more than a good salesman. It has to have a powerful engine for the Summit is one of the hardest pulls in the country. We don't know how many cars are equal to the test, but, we know that the FLINT can do it.

The Flint Six Touring comes completely equipped. Balloon tires and four wheel brakes, however, are optional equipment.

Delivered.

Last Thursday, June 5th, Mr. W. A. White of the United Motor Company took his demonstrator which has been driven 20,000 miles, to Uniontown and went over the Summit with ten people in the car, weighing 1,576 pounds. When they reached the top they were making twenty-five miles an hour in high gear. Then they went up with two passengers and the driver and hit the top at forty-five miles per hour. The car that can equal this performance must have a real motor. The first FLINT that was made was tried out by W. C. Durant. After his ride he gave the car its slogan "Quite Good Enough." Today, thousands of FLINT owners are agreeing that it is no exaggeration.

HUMAN NEEDS CREATE MOTOR STEEDS

Necessity Dictates What Engineering Trends Shall Be Accepted or Rejected—New Mechanical Features Will Become Standard if Conditions Force Motorist to Accept Them—Auto History Illustrates Importance of Influence of Conditions on Design.

By WILLIAM L. ULLMAN.

Necessity, not intrinsic advantages of new mechanical and body features, determine whether or not new trends in motordom will reach the stage of general adoption.

This is the conclusion reached by those who, in peering back through the history of motordom, see that the most prediction has always been the one that was based on motor conditions rather than the appeal to man's comfort, convenience or safety.

Motorists are naturally eager to know whether air brakes, balloon tires, closed cars, straight-eight motors and such are to be generally adopted. Predictions are running rampant. Numerous new developments have their merits, and many people wonder why they are not embraced immediately, revealing total ignorance of the fact that automobile design is influenced more by necessity than choice.

Seasoned prophets consider the future of all mechanical and body changes on a basis of what they note in the general conditions under which the cars of the future may have to operate. Great improvements in brakes for instance are predicted by majority of people on the assumption that increased complexity of demands it, but there are some wise folk who are looking far enough ahead to suspect that better brakes will be necessary merely to compensate for greater speed on the highways. City traffic of the future being much less complicated and dangerous than it is at present.

The automobile already has commenced the process of decentralizing cities thus decentralizing traffic. This combined with better ways of handling traffic, is considered by some as evidence that there may come a time when there will be no such thing as a "town car," privately-owned automobiles being barred from congested points and having no occasion to be there. This is clearly exemplified in the city of New York where the taxi is displacing the privately-owned car and where the automobile itself is making it less and less necessary for motorists to use their cars in the center of the city. The business and social life of the city is spreading out to an extent where there is less need for being in the congested district.

Will this not have its influence on the flexibility of engines, the type of body, the wheelbase or the brakes? Too many motorists forget that the development of the self-starter had very little to do with the comfort of not having to crank the car by hand. Long after the starter became a reality many owners preferred to crank by hand. It was traffic that put the starter where it is. Motorists would not tolerate the owner who blocked traffic in order to weld a hand crank.

A lot of people reject better brake systems on ground that they can stop quick enough with what they have. It's not a question of personal choice. If motordom of the future turns to greater congestion, better brakes will be forced on car owners as a matter of necessity. If the country can be analyzed so accurately as to show that it is reaching a point of saturation then one can be safe in saying that radical improvements in brakes will hardly materialize.

The broad view of the matter with regard to brakes just now is this. If the cities of America are to be decentralized, motorists will be required to cover greater distances in the time they now spend in driving from their apartment on 65th street to their office downtown. There will be greater speed, but there will be better highways to encourage this.

For safety's sake, better braking systems will be needed. These braking systems will of necessity be forced upon car owners since they will be the only possible insurance against highway accidents and the expense of collisions.

By putting the test of necessity to each automotive problem one can prophesy with greater accuracy, particularly if this is coupled with past experience in motordom. Every motorist knows that it would be a great comfort to be able to operate the brakes by moving a short lever connected with an air braking system, but if there develops no real necessity for such simplicity the motorist will go on and on with the conventional plan of using his muscular effort whenever he wants to stop the car.

Automatic spark control is not "coming in" because it makes for simplicity—merely because car owners are getting tired of paying bills for damage done to their motors through incorrect use of the spark control.

The motor prophet has to view each question in a broad way. It isn't so many years ago when many people were speaking of the roadster as "the car for the selfish." No one was figuring that the time would come when no car would need more than one or two extra seats because few people would need to ride with others. Everyone would have a car of his or her own.

Who knows but what the great development in the American system of trunk line highways, and the increase in average car speed, will so change the whole situation that people will be able to select more inviting climates in which to live and motor? California and Florida will not know what real popularity means until motorists from the north and east are able to vacation by motor over broad, smooth concrete roads at top speed.

What type of car will be popular then? Will motorists be content to sit on velvet upholstery encased in glass? Will they be content to be blown away in an open car? Or will there be a car to meet these newer demands?

Whether balloon tires become standard depends largely upon whether motorists change their ideas about the number of years they should keep their cars. Longer car life is no argument to the man who trades in for a new car every year. He probably considers the cost of his tires before the cost of car depreciation, and tries to get along with the cheapest tire proposition he can find. This type of motorist is very numerous and before the balloon tire (or any other car-saver device) can make material progress there has got to be a change in car ownership.

The intrinsic merits of new features appear to be secondary to conditions, and if one is going to look into the future it is essential to consider the question as to whether there is or will be a need for them. Motorists always have accepted what they need.

Leisenring Sliders Beat Trotter; Score 21 Runs

Curraway of Victors Gets Four Home Runs, Two Coming in Third Frame.

GIANTS ARE HELPLESS

"Happy" Anderson, twirler for the Paul Toradoses, worked the mound for the Leisenring Sliders yesterday afternoon and held Trotter Giants to five runs and eight hits while his mates swatted out 21 hits and as many runs, winning the game by a big margin, 21 to 5, at Leisenring. Curraway started with five hits for the Sliders and established a possible record by swatting out four homers in one game, two which came in the third inning. The Leisenring outfit scored in every inning but the fourth.

The Leisenring team would like to meet some fast teams in the coke region, either at home or abroad. Write P. Clark, manager, Leisenring, in regard to games.

Leisenring Hands Morewood Defeat; Score One-Sided

The fast Leisenring team scouted the hard hitting Morewood team Thursday evening at the Leisenring grounds by a score of 9 to 1, for its fourth consecutive victory, before one of the largest crowds of the season. Alexander, moundman for the Leisenring outfit, was in rare form and whiffed 4 Morewood swatters, while Liska, twirler for Morewood, broadened 12 Leisenring outcasts. Timely hitting behind Alexander capped the game, while Frolic lived things up by minding four foolies. Morewood was able to get but five hits, two of them scratch infield singles, while Leisenring got twice as many, including five extra base hits. Alexander, Rusinko and Finnerty cloaked home runs with men on base.

CAPSTAN "DUSTS OFF" MOUNT BRADDOCK NINE IN SECOND GAME, 8-4

"Revenge is sweet" and the Capstan Independents took the sweetest yesterday afternoon in defeating the strong Mount Braddock outfit by a score of 8 to 4 on the Capstan grounds. In twilight game, the grounds were in very good condition despite the heavy showers that fell up to noon. George Clawson and Dushaw contributed to the victory by swatting out homers. Dushaw's fielding was brilliant. Moorman, star moundman for the Capstanners, pitched a good game and was exceptionally strong in the pitcher's box. Swops was touched for 12 safeties, and his mates helped Capstan with three, clunkers. Moorman had three singles in as many times at bat. Beatty and Noto featured in batting for Mount Braddock.

This evening South Connelville will meet the Republic team at 6 o'clock at the home grounds. The place blowers will seek revenge in the return tilt with the Dunbar Independents Monday evening at South Connelville.

Plates Again Idle

Double-headers will follow one after another in that month at the rate they are piling up on the present eastern trip.

The League of Nations ball club defeated the West Side Tigers in a five-inning game at Fayette Field yesterday evening. The score was 10-6. Jim Hagerly, little clip on the League team, hit for two doubles and a triple, the latter coming when the bases were full.

Boston and New York, in the American League, remain tied for first place. The Tigers forfeited to the Yankees yesterday, when a riot started at the Detroit grounds, and Boston won from Cleveland, 8-3.
